TRIBUTE TO AMERICAN MECHANICS—ENGLAND BEATEN.

A few weeks ago the London Times—universally considered the ablest and most influential paper in England, or in all Europe—published a most significant and instructive article, based on a recent report of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, accounting for the widespread depression of the metal trades throughout England. That journals deliberate utterances always carry such great weight, and its admissions are so candid, pointed and impressive that we reproduce—so that there may be no mistake whatever about the matter—some of the more salient passages as a text for brief comment:

"At this moment, Birmingham is losing its old markets. A few years ago it used to supply the United States largely with edged tools, farm implements, and various smaller wares. It does so no longer, nor is the cause to be sought merely in the American tariff. It is found that the manufacturers of America actually supersede us, not only in their own, but in foreign markets and in our own colonies, and the Birmingham Chamber has the sagacity to discover, and the courage to declare, that this is owing to the superiority of American goods.

"High as are the wages of an English artisan, those of an American artisan are higher still, and yet the manufacturers of the United States can import iron and steel from this country at a heavy duty, work up the metal by highly paid labor, and beat us out of the market after all with the manufactured article. How is that to be explained?

"The Americans succeed in supplanting us by novelty of construction and excellence of make. They do not attempt to undersell us in the mere matter of price. Our goods may still be cheapest, but they are no longer the best, and in the country where an axe, for instance, is an indispensable implement, the best article is the cheapest, whatever it may cost. Settlers and emigrants soon find this out, and they have found it out to the prejudice of Birmingham trade."

What a deserved triumph for our American mechanics, and what a spur to future improvement and excellence. How this article must have stirred all Britain from hub to rim. What! Birmingham, the very centre of the iron and steel tool trade, beaten on her own ground! "Our goods may still be cheapest but no longer best." "Americans are supplanting us by novelty of construction, and excellence of make." A higher tribute to the skill, ingenuity, intelligence and progressive capacity of American workmen could not well be awarded. It makes us feel good to our very marrow, and if this be so, when, as the Times confesses, our country imports iron and steel from England at a heavy duty, how will it be when we make our fabrics only from our own iron and steel? We do not have to search far for the cause of this openly avowed superiority of our artisans over those of England. Here, mechanics and operatives receive living wages for their service; there, scarcely more than enough to keep body and soul together. Here, a mechanic is not fighting his battle of life the whole twenty-four hours, oppressed with care and benumbed by despair, but is incited and stimulated to endeavor and brain effort, knowing well that the mechanic of to-day may be the inventor, or the shop owner of to-morrow. Here, the mechanic does not, as in England, spend his Sundays and holidays at the beer shop or gin hole; is not besotted with tipple, nor steeped in ignorance; but is treated as a man; is a reader, a thinker, a voter, and a person whose wits are always on the alert, who knows there is fame and fortune in the fruit of his brain.

Every one knows that in this country, it is the workmen at the bench, or in the shop, or the mill, who think and work out more than two-thirds of the useful inventions of the day. In Pittsburgh there are some of our latest and most successful improvements which were thought out and patented by the mechanics in our mills and factories. English mechanics are very frequently skillful and expert in a kind of automatic, "rule-of-thumb" way, but their inventive faculties are comparitively dormant, are not on the qui vive as in this country. As said before, almost all our successful and wealthy inventors have generally been working men, who have, over the bellows, at the bench, around the furnace, and in the foundry seen, by daily experience, some defect in their ways of work, and have had suggested to them some quicker, easier, or more economical way of reaching results.

What chance then has the English mechanic in the keen race and sharp strife with his brother of America. Cheap labor can do routine work, but can accomplish little or nothing new. But consider the mechanic, as we do and will continue to do in this country, the peer of the best of us, in rights and chances. Educate him thoroughly, compensate him well, multiply your schools of design, technical courses, schools of mines and arts for his benefit, and his advance in the future will be still more rapid than in the past. No, no, Birmingham and Sheffield are gone by. Pittsburg, Cincinnati and Philadelphia are for the future.—American Manufacturers Review.

FIGURES FOR FREE TRADERS.

Mr. David A. Wells, ever since he gave up his portfolio, has served as a standing statician for the Revenue Reformers. Once in a while David is caught napping, as in the matter of his misrepresentations concerning the condition of our trade with South America. Mr. Wells has been tramping over pretty much the same ground Prof. Perry walked over, and rehearsing very nearly the same arguments advanced by the Professor. A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette has taken the trouble to look up the data showing the facts in the case, which are set forth in the following figures. It will be seen from them that the operations of the tariff are beneficial to us. Yet Mr. Wells has been shedding tears (figuratively speaking) over the great loss incurred to the United States. Here is a tabular statement of the increase of our commerce with Buenos Ayres since 1857:

In 1858, imports from Argentine Republic	$2,725,218
In 1858, exports of our products	552,500
Aggregate volume of commerce	$3,277,718
In 1870, imports from Argentine Republic	$6,414,669
In 1870, exports of our products	2,281,100
Aggregate volume of commerce	$8,695,760

According to our arithmetic the above shows an increase of one hundred and forty per cent. in exports.

The correspondent of the Gazette, not satisfied with this showing, proceeds to give some figures in answer to Professor Perry, Wells & Co's clamor for a "revenue tariff:"

Increase of revenue:

In 1860	$ 53,000,000
In 1864	162,000,000
In 1869-70	194,000,000
In 1870-71	210,000,000

We are told that not a single dollar of this was levied on productions. Its effect on commerce during the same period is shown in the following table of exports and imports:

In 1859	$700,000,000
In 1864 (midst war)	650,000,000
In 1869-70	750,000,000
In 1870-71 (at le	960,000,000

This array of figures is sufficiently convincing in themselves, but we are informed that the customs' revenue has been quadrupled from $8,000,000 to $210,000,000; foreign commerce, in spite of all the outcry about American shipping, increased 20 per cent.; American manufactures increased 80 per cent.; the wealth of the country increased $5,000,000,000!

These figures are not precisely the thing the Revenue Reformers want, but they may be accepted as an excellent antidote to the sort of statistical poison disseminated by Perry, Wells & Co.

"The names of General Wm. M'Candless and James H. Cooper will strike terror to the Radical camp."

So says the Pittsburg Post. In reply the Pittsburg Gazette says: "Now will the gentlemen proceed to strike? It would be such a new sensation in the Radical camp to be struck with terror by Democratic nominees that we should like to see how the odd thing would work. Again, gentlemen, we say oblige us by commencing to strike." And so say we all.

How Protection Affects Prices.—In 1860 no steel rails were made in the United states, and we were obliged to buy them in England at from $135 to $162 per ton. In 1864 works were first erected in the United States to make steel rails, since then quite a number have been erected and a large quantity of steel rails used in 1860 were made in this country. In the same year we were able to buy steel rails from England at $75 to $80 per ton.

THOSE DEMOCRATIC RESOLUTIONS.

We have read (says the Scranton Republican) and fully enjoyed the resolutions adopted by the Democratic State Convention at Harrisburg. Next to that which accepts negro suffrage, the following is the most admirable:

Resolved, That labor and capital have no just cause of antagonism, that we deprecate strife between these two great forces, and earnestly seek to place the laborer and the capitalist on such a platform as will enable both to amicably adjust their differences, and we are unalterably opposed to the importation of a servile race for the purpose of degrading the standard and lowering the position of the laboring men of the nation.

That is about as nearly balanced as could have been expected from a Democratic Convention whose chief leader was Alderman Billy M'Mullen, of the Fourth ward, Philadelphia. They do not want to endorse the labor movement, nor yet oppose it; they were afraid to offend capital, but not want to say anything in favor of it as against labor, so they wisely split the differance and approved both labor and capital.—They "deprecate strife" and will earnestly seek "to place labor and capital on such a platform as will enable both to amicably adjust their differences." This is as meaningless and senseless a resolution as ever was written or approved by any man claiming ordinary intelligence. It does not suggest a remedy, nor does it take a position, not even to say that a laboring man should receive fair wages for his work, or that a capitalist should control his own property. The Democracy take very good care now days to be on good terms with all classes, and they have determined to cultivate the friendship even of the colored men. They are going in to win and when the campaign is fairly opened they will take the above resolution to the laboring man and say: "Why look at this and see if we are not the workingman's friend?" Then they can turn around and present the same resolution and say to the capitalists, "what is there in this that does not favor capital just as much as it does labor?" And they are right; it is a perfectly impartial resolution, and can be used either way. They are, however, emphatic in their opposition to the importation of a "servile race." This means the Chinee; but if slavery had not been abolished the Democracy would be heartily in favor of the introduction of the servites, provided they would do duty as slaves, and Democratic masters would pocket the proceeds of their labor, as of yore, when they were in the habit of importing a "servile race" from Africa. The Democratic party is indeed in a pitiable condition, for without dignity, manhood or position they have eaten their bad record, and are now preparing another which they must swallow at some future day.

"Hark from the tombs a doleful sound." Ex-rebel General Robert Tooms, whose military exploits during the war consisted principally in his keeping out of harm's way' is roaming his native forest of Georgia, lecturing on "Magna Charta." He is still the same lordly, untameable lion that he was years ago, and his roar is as awe-inspiring as ever. He advises his audiences to make no compromise, to have nothing to do with men who talk of dead issues and accepting the situation, and to make a square fight of it now and hereafter. We hardly suppose that his expenses are paid by Linton Stephens and the forty other promineut Georgians who a few weeks ago issued a circular inviting Northern immigration into that State, and yet their political garments are cut from the Same piece. Funny.—Pittsburg Commercial.

Protection makes us prosperous and independent. It gives us plenty of work at good wages and enables us to keep our money at home, because we make what we want instead of buying it from foreigners. It is only practicing protection when the farmer, like a sensible man, refuses to buy from abroad what he can produce at home. Nations grow rich on the same principles as men.—They that sell more than they buy become rich while those who buy more than they sell become poor. Protection enables a country to develop its industry increases its production and gives it a surplus for sale the value of which is added to its wealth.

—According to said juvenile experience, it takes ten boys on each side to play base ball in Boston on the Sabbath. Nine do the actual play, and the additional boy looks out for the police.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY AND THE LABOR MOVEMENT.

We in this country have hitherto been led, both politically and morally, says the Philadelphia Press, by certain great leaders, who, although not themselves politicians or preachers, have moulded the sentiments and views of the people. The most prominent of these men is Wendell Phillips. By the irresistible force of his logic we have been impelled in the last decade to the performance of things which have been the astonishment and wonder of even ourselves.

Just now he is engaged in a new crusade, which at least proves his sincerity as a reformer. He has not stopped with the emancipation and enfranchisement of the black man, but now aims to secure the full disenthralment of the white. Always on the picket line of thought, he has discovered that the next great question to be confronted by the American people is the relations of capital and labor.

The only means that suggests itself to Mr. Phillips and his followers to solve the problem and avoid a disastrous conflict is the Republican party. The Democracy is in sympathy with nothing that savors of progress. The reversal of the present condition of labor and capital in the North would be as repugnant to it as is the altered condition of the same elements at the South. Its friendship for the laboring man is assumed to catch his support. It has always been the aristocratic party of the country, and must continue so as long as it retains its present leaders.

The Republican party in Pennsylvania has ever been watchful of the interests of labor. Its votes in Congress have been steadily cast in favor of a protective tariff, which creates and fosters the industries which furnish employment and sustenance for the workingman; and in this particular it offers a strong contrast to the Democracy, whose representatives at Washington, even from our coal and iron districts, have enrolled themselves among the free-traders on Revenue Reformers.

On every other question that relates to the labor movement we are in full sympathy with the workingman. Ours is the party of the oppressed. We have redressed the wrongs of the humble laborer of the Southern cotton-fields, and we will protect those of the honest, industrious white mechanics and miners of the North.

For these reasons we hope to see the men who represent the brawn and muscle of the Commonwealth among the steadiest of the Republican columns in the approaching canvass. They have everything to gain and nothing to lose through the party that has inscribed equal rights to all upon its banners.

MORE STEALING.

On last Friday, after being amended so as to pay only the members of the Legislature and not the committee, the bill giving each member ten dollars extra for each day of the session, after April 12 was passed by the Democratic Senate by the following vote, which we ask the people to study. (Democrats in italics.)

Yeas.—Messrs. Alcright, Broadhead, Buckalew, Connell, Crawford, Davis, Dechert, Detamater, Dill, Duncan, Henszey, Miller, Mumma, Nagle, Petriken, Randall, and Wallace. Total 17—14 D. 3 R.

Nays.—Messrs. Allen, Billingfelt, Brooke, Evans, Knight, Osterhout, Rutan, Turner, Warfel, and White. Total 10—8 R. 2 D.

The bill now goes back to the House.

This bill originated in the House and was passed by a conspiracy of the thieves and pickpockets of that branch of the Legislature. The thing was accomplished by getting the notorious Sam Josephs of Philadelphia in the chair, who, when the vote was taken, refused to hear the calls for the yeas and nays and declared the bill passed, though it is believed that there was not a majority voting for it. While the dishonest Knaves of the House refused to face the music and put their names on the record, the Senate, more brazen faced, put itself on the record, which we give above. We hope when the bill comes up in the house the honest men of that body will force the yeas and nays so that the people may know exactly how many of their servants at Harrisburg are worthy to be trusted with the public funds. When the usual useless herd of clerks, pasters and folders &c., were all agreed upon and the appointments made without a murmur in any quarter we thought it a bad sign, and when the old Legislative record swindle went through at last we were fully convinced that the power of the Democracy in the Senate would only be a stimules to, instead of a check upon, extravagance and corruption. Our worst forebodings have been more than realized. Though voting money into their own pockets is not a criminal offence under the law, yet many a poor fellow has been sent to the penitentiary for a smaller theft, the only difference being that he stole because he was in need and they steel because they can do it without fear of the law. We have no means of knowing the political complexion of the House vote on this bill but that of the Senate is highly significant. The bill puts about $400,00 of extra pay into the pocket of each member and robs the state Treasury of about $53,200.00 supposing that the Legislature adjourns to day (Friday) which will just make 40 week days since April 12th.

Of the Seventeen (17) Senators voting for this bold robbery fourteen (14) were Democrats and three (3) Republicans and of those voting against it eight were Republicans and but two Democrats. But three dishonest Republicans of the sixteen were found, while out of the whole seventeen but bare two Democrats could resist the temptation to steal $400,-00. Comment is useless, the facts speak for themselves. We have had fault enough to find with our own party but we find the Democracy worse beyond comparison. Let the people read and ponder and let the brand of thief be upon the forehead of every recreant Senator and without regard to party. The constituencies that will return such men are no honester than their representatives and both alike deserve the scorn and contempt of all honest men.—Bedford Inquirer.

MORE COPPERHEAD REBELLION.

The Copperhead majority in our State Senate, says the Bedford Inquirer have for some time been endeavoring to browbeat the House into submitting to the passage of a number of partisan copperhead bills. The House gave way to some extent on the Apportionment bill in order to break up the dead lock which the copperheads has brought about and set business in motion once again. Emboldened by their success in that case the Copperheads of the Senate passed a bill amending the Philadelphia Registry law in the interest of the Democracy and on the refusal of the Republican House to pass this partisan Copperhead bill the Senate passed by a strict party vote the following revolutionary and rebellions resolution:

Resolved by the Senate of Pennsylvania, That until the House shall rescind its unparliamentary, unjust and discourteous action upon the bill aforesaid, and take the usual steps for a conference on the disagreement between the two houses thereon, the Senate will appoint no committees of conference upon any bills upon which there are disagreements and all Senate committees of conference are hereby discharged from the subject matters committed to them by the action of the Senate, and that the Clerk communicate this resolution to the House.

It is always the privilege and often the duty of one House to refuse to pass a bill coming from the other, and it is not and has never been considered "unparliamentary, unjust or discourteous" even to refuse a conference and especially in a bill of a purely partisan character. In this case the discourtesy was entirely on the part of the Senate. The Democratic majority is but one in that body while the Republican majority in the House is eleven (11) giving a Republican majority of ten on joint ballot. What right has a bare majority of copperheads in the Senate to demand that a Republican Legislature shall pass a purely partisan copperhead bill? Or what right has this same bare copperhead majority in the Senate to stop the the whole work of legislation, prevent the passage of the appropriation bill and the adjournment of the Legislature simply because it cannot have its own way? The rebels themselves never did a more rebellious act short of levying actual war. So extravagant, corrupt, dishonest and rebellions a body as the Democratic Senate at Harrisburg has never before disgraced our State capital. The people will hold them responsible.

Omitted.—We have been compelled to omit this week our notice of our old friend Isaac Myton, with Bencroft & Co., Nos. 405 and 407 Market Street, above 4th North side. Our notice of Alonzo de O. Rosseter with Charles Stokes & Co., Merchant Tailors 824 Chestnut St. W. It works very successfully, and will drown a Newfoundland dog in five minutes, if the strap holds together

About two years ago John Schnare, of this place, lost a pocket-book containing about $70 in money and notes amounting to about $100. He heard nothing of the missing property, and never expected to, but much to his surprise, a few days ago he received an express package from Millersburg, which when opened, contained the amount of money and the missing notes. The transaction is a strange one, and has caused many surmises as to why the money was returned at this late day.—Selinsgrove Times.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

Cousin Percy's Test.

Just in the outskirts of a certain small village there stands, away back from the road, amid some tall, wide-spreading elm-trees, an old-fashioned house, wherein do eat, drink, sleep and exist the Misses Grimwood, three elderly unwedded females of a shrunken-up and withered appearance, who represent with great credit that class of human beings known—in somewhat expressive language—as the "vulgar aristocracy."

The Miss Grimwoods were very precise and particular in their manner of saying and doing things, for fear they should appear "low" and "impolite," and too much like the "common people," to be regarded with that respect which their great wealth and small brains ought (judging from the way such things usually are) to confer upon them.

One pleasant day in june, the three old maids sat together in a large bay-window that commanded an unlimited view of the graveled walk, leading down between to rows of trees to the road, and the road itself that wound its way toward the little village, faintly seen in the distance.

"Elmira, my love," murmured the eldest Miss Grimwood to the next younger, with an air of indolence and languor that was supposed to be fashionable.

"Yes, my dear," said Elmira, with a weary sigh, as if it cost her a great effort to speak at all.

"Do you suppose cousin Percy will come out to see us this Summer? You know we havn't seen him for four or five years, and I've heard he is very stylish and polite, and so gentlemanly—I do wish he would."

"I don't know, my love," replied Elmira; "I wrote him an invitation nearly ten days ago, but have received no reply. I do wish he would come, he is so wealthy and handsome, and—"

"And has such a lovely moustache, Amelia wrote," said the younger sister, who affected to be sentimental.

"Cornelia," said Elmira, with a slight frown, "how much must I remind you that you must not interrupt while I am speaking? It's low, and not genteel. As I was about to remark, I hope our cousin Percy will come, for he will make such a nice match for you, and you can get him if you are only stylish and agreeable."

"And has our assistance, said the eldest Miss Grimwood, with a precise air of superior wisdom.

"Yes," assented Elmira, with a bow, "and has our assistance."

Miss Cornelia simpered and hid her face in her handkerchief, and tried to blush, but failed completely. After this the three, having exhausted their stock of ideas, became lost in an absorbing reverie, thinking about nothing.

"I declare," said the eldest sister, suddenly arousing herself from the state of imbecility into which she had fallen, and gazing out down the walk to the gate, through which a young man, evidently "one of the common people," was just coming. "I declare—what is that vulgar man coming into our premises for? Go ask the fellow what business he has to intrude on our private grounds, sister Cornelia."

O! O!" said the delicate young lady addressed, almost thrown into convulsions by the monstrosity of so horrid a proposition, "I—I can't! He's so ragged!"

"I suppose that it is hardly proper that you should be seen speaking to such a common person," said the eldest, with a great deal of importance; "but what can we do? Our man-servant is not at home, and if he keeps on he will actually come upon our front steps. Dear me, I do wish these low people would know their places!"

After a great deal of talk it was finally decided that, owing to the extreme urgency of the case, all three should go out and accost the man, and ascertain what business it was that made him presume to defile the ground of the Grimwoods with his loathsome presence. Accordingly, the three arose, and with a very stiff and precise appearance, that the man might be at once impressed with a due respect for their importance, stalked out upon the porch in Indian file, just as the stranger reached the steps that led into the house,

"The impudence and boldness of these lower classes exceeds our most credulous belief, sister Elmira," said the eldest sister, in a loud, shrill key, that was, of course, perfectly audible to the ears of the man for whom it was intended.

"Certainly, my love; you are quite right," said Elmira, with a glance of contempt at the stranger. "They are very unmannerly and impolite, I am sure."

"And—and—ragged," said Cornelia, the youngest, with a little simper, and glancing at the clothes worn by the man. "O, dear, ain't it awful!"

"I think they should be summarily ejected from the grounds of those who are their superiors, when they have no better taste than to intrude," said Elmira disdainfully.

"What do you come here for, man?" said the eldest sister, sharply to the stranger. In reply to the question, he produced a letter, and held it toward her at arm's length.

Here, fellow," said the eldest Miss Grimwood, tossing a dime to him, "take that and go away, do!"

The piece of silver fell directly in the path of the young man, who spurned it aside with his foot, and continued his way to the gate, soon disappearing in the direction of the village.

"I declare," said the eldest sister, as they returned into the house, "if that low person ain't awfully impertinent! Refused the money I gave him! How dare he do it? Who is the lettkr from, Elmira, my love?"

"Dear me," said Elmira, who had been eager in its perusal, "if it ain't from our dear cousin Percy! It is dated at the village, at which he says he has just arrived, and says he will be here in about two hours. Do run to the window, sister Cornelia, and see if he is not almost here. It is about time. O, how pleased I am!"

The youngest sister did as requested, and after a long and eager look down the road, returned to report that no one was in sight, whereat the eldest rang the bell, and ordered the servant who answered it to have the cook immediately prepare a "sumptuous feast," suitable to the rank and wealth of the expected guest. After this, the Misses Grimwood, concealing their excitement and impatience, for fear it might be "low" to evince such human feelings, sat like three icebergs in the center of the parlor, and frigidly awaited the coming of their dear cousin Percy. In due time a magnificent carriage, drawn by a pair of splendid black horses, dashed up to the gate in grand style, and there alighted therefrom the young gentleman in question, Mr. Percy, dressed in the extreme height of fashion.

We propose to let pass unrecorded the unimportant events that transpired during the first week of Mr. Percy's visit, and narrate the particulars of an occurrence that took place the day before his departure from the home of the Grimwoods, and which is very important in this story, as it not only changes the entire hopes and prospects of the three old maids, but also develops into a suspicion the reader may have entertained regarding Mr. Percy.

The two elder of the Misses Grimwood had been "laying their heads together" ever since the advent of their cousin at Grove Place, to capture the heart, the hand, and the fortune of the genteel and agreeable Percy for their younger and more handsome—it is not saying much—sister Cornelia. After a discussion that lasted a very long time, and in which an immense amount of wisdom was displayed, it was at length decided that the next day—that being the day before Percy's visit was expected to terminate—the two Misses Grimwood should contrive to have Cornelia and her cousin left alone together for a sufficient length of time for him to propose, she to accept, and the day to be settled between them when the happy ceremony that would make them husband and wife was to transpire. To make as sure a thing of it as possible, Miss Cornelia was called in and given a great many instructions how to act and what to say by the elder Misses Grimwood, who, having been engaged for the last fifteen years in the fruitless endeavor to get married, were eminently qualified to give such advice.

The programmee was accordingly carried into effect, and the next day found Cornelia and Percy seated alone together in the arbor, side by side, under as favorable circumstances for popping the question as probably had ever been recorded in the history of any love-making.

"What a lovely day it is, cousin Percy," said Cornelia, glancing sideways at the young man. "The gale wafts to my nose the smell of flowers, and—and—how sweetly the hens cackle! It seems just like the day you came. What made you send such an outlandish ragged fellow with your letter, dear Percy?—he was awful horrid and vulgar."

"Indeed" said Percy, politely. "What did he do or say, pray?"

"What a question, Percy, for you to ask. Why, he was ragged, and so, of course, he was no gentleman. But let us not talk about it—it's so awful. Let us converse about something else."

"Well," said Percy, calmly, "what shall it be, love?"

"Love," repeated Cornelia, as coquettishly as her age would permit. "Ain't you ashamed of yourself to call me 'Love.' Oh, hear Percy, I am not your love, am I?"

"No," said Percy, smiling slightly to himself, "you are not."

This reply, so different from what she hoped, somewhat disconcerted her at first; however she soon rallied and came back to the charge.

"And must you leave to-morrow, dear Percy!" she said, drawing nearer, and accidentally, of course, laying her hand in his. "Must this parting be so soon? Must—must the cords that have united us in our friendship be severed by the knife of absence, oh, dear Percy?"

"They must," said Percy," with a stoicism against all these blandishments, that would have done credit to a philosopher. Miss Cornelia felt that something desperate must be performed, or her chances for getting Percy's hand—and consequently his fortune, which was, of course, the chief point to be gained—would fall through. A little right management at the proper time might effect her object, while on the other hand, a slight terror in speech or manner might ruin her entire hopes and prospects. It was a delicate point, and she felt it.

"Cousin Percy," said she, looking at him tenderly.

"Well," said Percy.

"Your company is very agreeable."

"Is it?" said Percy, calmly.

"Yes, it is very agreeable to me, dear Percy."

"Ah!" said Percy.

Miss Grimwood was almost in despair.

"Cousin Percy," she said desperately.

"Well!"

"Do you think it wrong for cousins—not second cousins, but cousins like you and me—to get married, Dear Percy?"

"That will do," said Percy, sharply.

"What?" said Cornelia, startled at the words and manner of her companion.

"That will do," repeated Percy. "You needn't pop the question."

Miss Grimwood was dumb. She could not have spoken a word then had her life depended upon it.

"You needn't pop the question," said Percy, "because I am too 'awful horrid and vulgar' to suit your taste."

"Why, what do you mean?" said Cornelia, burying her face in her handkerchief with a snivel.

"I mean," said Percy, rising, and standing before her, "that I am the poor, ragged, despised fellow that brought the letter announcing my coming. If you treated me mean then, you must now. I disguised myself on purpose to try you and your sisters. I see what you are. I shall leave Grove Place to-morrow, never to return. What is more, I am going to marry a poor girl, who is not worth a farthing, but she is beautiful, pure and good, and I will plainly inform you that you and your sisters are not fit to touch the hem of her dress. Good day!"

He bowed with cold dignity and walked out of the arbor toward the house.

Miss Cornelia Grimwood gave utterance to a piercing shriek that would have established the reputation of a Steam-whistle for all time to come, and rolling off from the seat on to the ground, "fainted" quite away just as her two sisters (who had been trying to ascertain how their scheme worked, by listening to the entire conversation outside the harbor) came rushing to render assistance.

The two Misses Grimwood fell upon their knees before their prostrate sister, chafed her hands and limbs, sprinkled cold water in plentiful quantities over her face, poked straws up her nose, bewailed loudly that she was dead, and, in short, performed many other feats of a like nature, with the avowed intention of "bringing her to." They desisted, however, when they were sure that Percy was out of sight and hearing, and Cornelia, raising herself on her elbow in a most remarkable manner for one in her supposed condition, and gazing anxiously around, said:

"Is—is he home?"

"Yes, my love," murmured the two old maids in the same breath. "You can get up now, and if he comes back you can faint away again. Cruel man!"

We will bring our narration to a close, by stating that Mr. Percy left Grove Place the next day, and was never more seen in that vicinity. Within three months after the unsuccessful assault of three old maids on his affections and his purse, he married the poorest girl (in a pecuniary sense) in the country, but one who was the richest in gentleness, purity and virtue, and all the attractions that contribute to make home the nearest to paradise of anything on earth.

The three Misses Grimwood still reside at Grove Place; and although they did not soon forget the mortifying lesson that Percy taught them, they are aristocratic as ever, never seeming to have learned the fact that hidden beneath ragged clothes may be found true nobility, and that gold does not always glisten, neither are diamonds found without digging in the dirt.

The purchases of goods for the Indians, which are now making in New York, under the supervision of the Board of Merchants authorized by Congress to control the Commissioner of Indian Affairs in this respect, will be completed in due time, with a saving of from $500,000 $1,000,000. But for this supervision the Indians would be defrauded to that extent. Out of how much they were swindled last year, when the Indian Commissioner was not subject to such supervision, cannot be precisely known; but the investigation made by Congress last winter detected from $400,000 to $600,000 of such swindles. The people have sometimes had reason to complain of the action of Congress, but in this matter it has now done just what was right, and the result will be seen in the greater peace of the Indians and in the increased quiet and safety of the frontier settlements.

Josh Billings On Hotels.

I don't know any business more flattersome than the tavern business. There don't seem to be anything to do but to stand in front of the register with a pen behind the ear, and see the guest enter the house; then yank a bell-rope six or seven times; then tell John to show the gentleman to 976 and then take four dollars and fifty cents next morning from the poor devil of a traveller, and let him went.

This seems to be the whole thing (and it is the whole thing) in most cases.

You will discover the following description a mild one of about nine hotels out of ten between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, across the United States, in a straight line.

Your room is thirteen feet by nine inches by nine feet seven inches, parallelogramly.

It being court week, (as usual), all the good rooms are employed by the lawyers and judges.

Your room is on the uppermost floor.

The carpet is ingrain—ingrained with the dust, kerosene oil and ink spots of four generations.

There is two pegs in the room to hitch coats unto—one broke off, and the other pulled out and missing.

The bureau has three legs and one brick.

The glass on the bureau swings on two pivots, which have lost their grip.

There is one towel on the rack, thin but wet. The rain water in the pitcher came out of the well.

The soap is as tough to wear as a whetstone. It is scented with cinnamon oil and variegated with spots.

There is three chairs, cane-seaters; one is a rocker, and all three is busted.

There is a match-safe—empty.

There is no curtain to the window, and there don't want to be any. You can't see out and who can see in?

The bell rope is come off about six inches this side of the ceiling.

The bed is a modern slat-bottom, with two mattresses, one cotton and one husk, and both harder and about as thick as a sea biscuit.

You enter the bed sideways, and can feel every slat at once as easy as you could the ribs of a gridiron.

The bed is inhabited.

You sleep some, but roll over a good deal.

For breakfast you have a gong, and Rio coffee too cold to melt butter; fried potatoes, which resemble chips that a two inch auger makes in its journey through an oak log.

Bread, solid; beefsteak, about as thick as a blister plaster, and as tough as a hound's ear.

Table covered with plates, a few scared-to-death pickles on one of them, and six fly-indorsed crackers on the other.

A pewterinkum castor with three bottles in it, one without any pepper in it, one without any mustard, and one with two inches of drowned flies and some vinegar in it.

Servant girl with hoops on hangs around you earnestly, and wants to know if you want another cup of coffee.

You say "No, ma'am, I thank you," and push back your chair.

You haven't eat enough to pay for picking your teeth.

In Honeybrook township, Chester county, lives a man named Jesse Buchanan, now 67 years old, who became blind at the age of seven years, from an attack of fever. This man has lived in Honeybrook all his life, and although blind has been very useful. He has a great love for improvements, has built several houses, barns, &c., part of the wood work of which was his own construction. He now occupies one of them. Situated on the south side of what is known as the Welsh mountain, about three miles from Waynesburg and Morgantown, his cotts are located among the trees of the mountain, with no direct road to it, yet he can find his home at any moment without the slightest aid from any one. He can pass from one place to another for a distance of four or five miles in his own neighborhood; knows the different residences of his neighbors as soon as he approaches them knows the voices of different persons with whom he is acquainted, and in many instances their footsteps. He can tell the different kinds of timber: make a shaking fork, broom or axe handle. Can hang an axe, chop wood, and when done his day's work will hide his axe and return to the woods on the following day and find it, unless moved by some one. He can load hay, and when younger, was a good hand to bind grain. His health is very good and he can be seen going alone to and from places where he has business. The above may seem incredible to your readers, but strange as it may seem, it is true, as he has not only told me, but those who have known him from their boyhood.

Popular Men.—A popular man is one who has the happy faculty of never presenting any sharp corners, and never running against other people's sharp corners. He is not necessarily very good nor very wise, and he is rarely very great. His character is distinguished for negative rather than positive qualities; for a certain fortunate equilibrium and tact of adaption, rather than any intrinsic worth or marked individuality.

Indeed, this last is apt to be fatal to all personal popularity. A man of strong points is sure to come into collision with other people's strong points, to tread on other people's weak points, and to create more or less general antagonism.

How To Train A Child.

It never can be too strongly impressed upon the mind that nothing releases a parent from his duties towards a child. No waywardness, no disobedience, no rebellion, no profligacy can even justify father in casting a son or a daughter adrift. We hear of sons being cut off with a shilling, or daughters being forbidden their father's house, and without any exception, such cases are proof that, of whatever sins the children may have been guilty, the father is even more guilty. No person can commit against society so great a crime as a father commits who is thus false to the trust which he himself has imposed—who thus thrusts off from himself the soul which he called into being. A father should be governed by no motive but his child's best interests, and a child's best interests can never be served by anything but his father's constant and loving care. If a child is so bad that his influence is feared on the other children, separate them. If it is feared that money bestowed on him will be for his injury, provision may be made against that. But when a father, in a fit of anger, disinherits or refuses to see his child, he commits a crime which the laws indeed do not recognize, but whose guilt it would take many a legal crime to outweigh. There should be absolutely no limit to parental forgiveness and forbearance. Seven times and seventy times seven should the father receive the prodigal son who seeks his face; and if he never seeks it, if he goes, stubborn and rebellious, not one atom of fatherly care and interest should be relax; for the child is his offspring, born of his will, and no vice or violence can release the man from his solemn obligation to guard and guide, so far as possible, the life which he dared to give.

Monument to the Martyr-President.

Springfield, Ill., May 15.—The National Lincoln monument, now erecting at Oak Ridge Cemetery, near Springfield, Ill., will be completed about the 1st of July. The Monument Association has decided to celebrate the occasion with appropriate services. Besides the unveiling and inauguration of the bronze statue of Mr. Lincoln, just cast from the model by Mr. Meade, the celebrated sculptor, the remains of the late President will be transferred to the new vault in the base of the monument.

It is intended to make the occasion one of national interest, and it is probable that the President and Vice President of the United States, the heads of departments, the Supreme Court, Senators and Representatives in Congress, and the Governor and members of the Illinois Legislature, and other distinguished persons, will be invited to be present and participate in the ceremonies. The monument is magnificent in is proportions and imposing in appearance. The time for the ceremonies has not been definitely fixed, but that will be announced in due time.

Death of the White Blackbird.—Our readers may remember that nearly four years ago James B. Groome, Esq., while gunning, was attracted by the spectacle of a bird of white plumage flying with a flock of blackbirds. After hours of cautious pursuit, Mr. G. by a lucky shot, brought down the rare avis, but slightly wounded on the wing. He was captured and entrusted to the care of Mr. Arthur Mitchell, in whose hands he soon became lively and tame. It proved to be a genuine white blackbird. Every feather usually black in birds of its species, was white in it. The red spots on the wings were red. The bill and legs were white. Its song and habits were just like all of its black mates.—Flying, the bird looked white; sitting, it was a very light brown. The tips of its feathers had a dusty hue, but below the surface they were white. Mr. Mitchell kept the rare bird caged until a day or two since when it sickened and died.—Mr. Groome has sent it to Philadelphia to be prepared and stuffed, and will keep it as authentic evidence that there has been such a thing as a white blackbird.—Cecil Democrat.

The scene described below is said to have taken place in the Kentucky begislature in the winter of 1867: A member of one of the mountain counties was a persistent reader of the Louisville Journal and each morning, as the House opened, would commence reading his favorite paper. About the same moment some member would move to dispense with the reading of the journal, and our mountain member would lay down his paper. He stood this for some time, but one morning, rising from his seat after the usual motion, he exclaimed at the top of his voice: "Mr. Speaker, I've sot here for mor'n a week and submitted to the tyranny of this house. Somebody every morning moves to dispense with the reading of the Journal, and I've lost every paper I've bought for a week by it; and no man has ever moved to dispense with the Democrat or Courier, and Mr. Speaker, I won't stand it any longer. Mr. Speaker—" Here the remainder was lost in the general laughter.

"My dear," said the gentleman to a young lady to whom he thought to be married, "do you intend to make a fool of me?" "No," replied the lady; "nature has saved me the trouble."

"Well, Pat, why don't you put up your umbrella?" "Because, yer honor, the rain nd spile it, an' so I kept it onder my arum an' divil a dhrop it has got."

And wore out all their clothing.

The Great Pacific Railroad laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. STERNBERG,
A most delightful notion.

Remember that this private Stamp, issued by the United States Government expressly for stamping my medicines, has my portrait, name and address, and the words "U. S. Certificate of Genuiness," engraved upon it, and need not be mistaken. Don't be swindled by travelers and others representing themselves as Dr. Sage; I am the only man now living that has the knowledge and right to manufacture the Genuine Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I never travel to sell this medicite.

SOMETHING NEW
UNDER THE SUN.

A New Era In Medicine.

☞ Let the Suffering and Diseased read the following.

☞ Let all who have been given up by Doctors, and spoken of as incurable. read the following.

☞ Let all who can believe facts, and can have faith in evidence, read the following.

Know all men by these presents. That, on this, the Twentieth day of June, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Sixty-six, personally came Joseph Haydrick to me known as such, and being duly sworn deposed as follows: "That he is the sole general agent for the United States and dependencies thereof for preparations or medicines known as Dr. Maggiel's Pills and Salve, and that the following certificates are verbatim copies to the best of his knowledge and belief.

JAMES SMEITRE, Notary Public,
[L. S.] 14 Wall St. New York.

June 1st, 1866.

DR. MAGGIEL:—I take my pen to write you of my great relief and that the awful pain in my side has left me at last—thanks to your medicine. Oh, Doctor, how thankful I am that I can get some sleep. I can never write it enough. I thank you again and again, and am sure that you are really the friend of all sufferers. I could not help writing to you, and hope you will not take it amiss. JAMES MYERS,
116 Avenue, D.

This is to certify that I was discharged from the army with Chronic Diarrhœa, and have been cured by Dr. Maggiel's Pills.

WILSON HARVEY,
NEW YORK, April 7, 1866. 27 Pitt Street.

The following is an interesting case of a man employed in an Iron Foundry, who, in pouring melted iron into a flask that was damp and wet, caused an explosion. The melted iron was thrown around and on him in a perfect shower, and he was burnt dreadfully. The following certificate was given to me, by him, about eight weeks after the accident:

NEW YORK, Jan. 11, 1866.

My name is Jacob Hardy; I am an Iron Founder. I was badly burnt by hot iron in November last; my burns healed, but I had a running sore on my leg that would not heal: I tried Maggiel's Salve and it cured me in a few weeks. This is all true and anybody can see me at Jackson's Iron Works, 3d Avenue.

J. HARDY, 119 Greeck St.

EXTRACTS FROM VARIOUS LETTERS.

"I had no appetite; Maggiel's Pills gave me a hearty one."

"Your Pills are marvellous."

"I send for another box, and keep them in the house."

"Dr. Maggiel has cured my headache that was chronic."

"I gave half of one of your Pills to my babe for cholera morbus. The dear little thing got well in a day."

"My nausea of a morning is now cured."

"Your box of Maggiel's Salve cured me of noises in the head. I rubbed some of your Salve behind my ears, and the noise has left."

"Send me two boxes, I want one for a poor family."

"I enclose a dollar, your price is 25 cents, but the medicine to me is worth a dollar."

"Send me five boxes of your Pills."

"Let me have three boxes of your Pills by return mail."

I Have over 200 such Testimonials as these, but want of space compels me to conclude.

FOR CUTANEOUS DISORDERS,

And all erruptions of the skin, the SALVE is most invaluable. It does not heal externally alone, but penetrates with the most searching effects to the very root of the evil.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

FOR AUDITOR GENERAL,

DAVID STANTON,

OF BEAVER COUNTY.

FOR SURNEYOR GENERAL,

ROBERT B. BEATH,

OF SCHUYLKILL COUNTY.

THE Wilmington Commercial observes: When the Democracy agree, as Vallandigham proposes, to acquiesce in the great results of the Republican policy, what will that show? Will their approval of our established principles make Republicanism weaker and Democracy stronger? When they fall into ranks behind us, and utter exclamations of delight over our finished work, to whose credit does that go?

THE MONTHLY NOVELETTE OF JUNE.—The June number of the Monthly Novelette is issued, and embraces such a rare list of contents that we do not wonder at its growing popularity. M. Quad, of the Detroit Press, contributes one of his excellent guerrilla stories, the experience of a Michigan cavalry soldier in the late war, and then there is a sea story, half a dozen adventures and love stories, poetry, engravings, etc., etc., which all go to make up a first class magazine. The July number of the Monthly Novelette will be altered in form, and increased to 128 pages of reading matter, thus making it one of the most desirable publications in the country. The price will remain the same, $2.00 per year, or 20 cents per number. Address Thomes & Talbot, 63 Congress Street, Boston.

ONLY THE MANNER.—The Ohio Democracy, under the leadership of Vallandigham, thus accounts for its opposition to the reconstruction measures that have succeeded so well:

"'. While denouncing the manner of their adoption, we accept as de facto and irreversible the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments to the constitution."

Is it so, after all, that the opposition to the Constitutional Amendments was merely from an opposition to the manner of their adoption, and not because of any objection to the principles therein contained? Now, if it turns out that the Democracy was in favor of the Amendments, and that they look upon them as a blessing, they ought to be willing to compromise with us upon the mere manner of obtaining the desired result. As the blessing has come, what signifies the manner

WHAT DON PIAT KNOWS ABOUT ADVERTISING.

Don Piat, in a recent Washington letter, says:

"I went out the other day to purchase some furniture for an office, and having selected my articles, I turned to the man and said:

'You advertise in our paper, do you not?'

'No, sir; we never advertise.'

I then quietly informed him that I never bought furniture, and moved on to another establishment. You will think I am romancing, but precisely the same conversation occurred at the second store. I tried a third, quite a large establishment, standing on a corner, kept by a Christian (and I propose to advertise him now), of the Mosaic name of Moses—Moses & Son, at that. They have quite an assortment in the upholstery line, and I suggested advertising to the senior, and received in answer, that he occupied a corner, a conspicuous corner, and had a large sign on it that everybody could read from the street, and with that it was quite unnecessary to go to further expense in the way of advertising. Then I said unto Moses:

'Do you know my Christian friend, that when a man possessed of any amount of money wishes to furnish a house in Washington, he goes to Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, and even unto Boston?'

'Yes,' he responded, 'I know that.'

'Well,' said I, 'do you know the reason for it?'

'Why, of course I do,' he replied, with some asperity. 'These people come he from Boston and other places, and are interested in the manufactories at home, and of course won't purchase in Washington."

'My Christian friend,' I continued, 'you labor under a monstrous delusion. These men do not own any manufactories of furniture at home, and if they did, they would not purchase where they have to pay heavily for transportation, if they knew they could escape such taxes by getting their furniture of you. But they don't know that you exist. They read the papers, and they see no mention made of Moses—unless it be a Sunday paper, and the Moses spoken of is a man dead long ago—yet, however, no deader than you are, come to think of it. A man who does not advertise is as dead as Moses. You say you have a sign out here; this is not the sign asked for; few people see, and those who do can't read it. For one man walking idly down the streets who reads, there are hundreds who hurry by with no time to read signs; for one who does notice your abortion in black and white out there, a newspaper would take your business to thousands. Why, my Christian friend, immense fortunes have been made by advertising. Did you ever hear of the Ledger?

He had heard of the Ledger.

'Did you ever hear of Helmbold's Buchu?'

He had never heard of Helmbold's Buchu. He had seen a gentleman by the name of Helmbold driving down the avenue during the Carnival, with a great quantity of horses, and thought he was a part of the Administration. I gave him up in despair, and yet this is a specimen of the business man at the magnificent national capitol of our great country."

Colonel T. R. Manleve, an ex-Confederate soldier and Democratic editor in Texas, thus gives his reason for abandoning the Democratic and joining the Republican party:

"Time and experience have forced the conviction upon my mind that Democracy has ceased to be. No longer animated by those patriotic impulses which, in other and happier days, achived so much in liberty's behalf, its constituted leaders have prostituted the cardinal principles of Republican government in a mad scramble for place and power, and, oblivious to the solemn truth that the appeal to arms has been made and lost, still strive to invoke from a dead nation's tomb the shadowy phantoms of an irrevocable past.

Republicanism, on the other hand, meets the living issues of the time in which we live. Though not free from blemish in its long lease of power, it binds itself indissolubly to truth and duty, espouses as its own the interests of a suffering humanity everywhere, and bids defiance to all the power of the universe to sever it from civil and religious freedom. Permitting the "dead past to bury the dead," it looks with unfaltering trust to the future, wherein its grand mission is to be accomplished and peace and liberty become the portion of all.—Pittsburg Commercial.

A SAD STORY.

A few days since, says the Pittsburg Chronicle, of May 10, we published a little paragraph to the effect that Florella Linton had disappeared from the home of her parents, and was earnestly entreated by them to return to them if she was still alive. The story connected with this paragraph is a strange and sad, to say, a singular one.

Florella Linton is a girl of about eighteen years of age, and very beautiful. She is the daughter of respectable parents of the middle class, living in the Sixth ward of this city. The parents are members of the "Church of God" in this place, and their daughter was well and strictly brought up.

Some months ago Florella was on a visit in West Newton, and there made the acquaintance of a man who passed by the name of Jacob Shelby. He was a man of prepossessing and good address and was very popular among the Christian population of the place. He was a regular attendant at church, and on "prayer-meeting" night his presence was always looked for, and he rarely disappointed expectation by staying away. He was strong in exhortation and edifying in prayer. Altogether he seemed a most exemplary man. His acquaintance with Florella rapidly ripened to intimacy, and eventually resulted in a marriage engagement.

Florella returned home, and soon Shelby followed her to the city, where he went into business. He satisfied the girl's parents as to his good character, and they approved the proposed marriage. Some six months ago the marriage was consummated, and the couple commenced "keeping house" in the same neighborhood with the bride's parents. For a while the husband and wife were happy, and life seemed very bright before them.

About a month ago a letter which the husband had carelessly dropped at his father-in-law's house was picked up.—Some recent events had made the father-in law vaguely suspicious, and he opened and read the letter. It contained allusions to his son-in-law's children, and indicated that they were soon to be sent to Pittsburg. Florella's husband was "interviewed" by her parents, and after some circumlocution, he acknowledged that he had a wife and three children living in Colorado. The manner in which this acknowledgement was received may be imagined. The man who made the confession promised to leave Pittsburg within twenty four hours, with the promise that if he ever returned to the city he should be prosecuted for bigamy. Since this time he has disappeared from the scene.

In the gentlest manner possible the information was conveyed to the daughter who held a marriage certificate and yet was not his wife. Her grief and despair were terrible. She was almost distracted, and it was feared her reason would permanently leave her. She declared that she would not face the world after this blow. The parents soothed her as well as they could, and took her to their home, where a close watch was kept upon her, to prevent her putting her suicidal threats into execution.

Eventfully she became calmer, and seemed resigned to her great sorrow.—About a week ago, with her mother's consent, she left the house to go to her former home for the purpose of bringing back some of her clothing. She promised to be gone no more than an hour, but from that time to this she has neither been seen nor heard of. Her parents fear, and with too great reason, that she has committed suicide. No trace of her has been discovered, though her photograph has been furnished to a detective, and every effort has been made to find some clue to her whereabouts.

Her mother during her search for her, encountered a young man who had paid his addresses to the girl, and had been rejected by her in favor of the man who betrayed her. To him she told the story of wrong and sorrow. The young man at once entered heart and soul into the search, and declares that if the unfortunate girl can be found, and will accept his hand, he will marry her spite of all that has occurred.

We have given the statements as they were made to us by responsible parties, and can only express the hope that the search of the friends may be rewarded with success.

Ayer's
Hair Vigor,

For restoring Grey Hair to its natural Vitality & Color.

A dress which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair, Fresh or gray hair is restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparation dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

These Pills are the most delightfully pleasant purgative, superseding caster oil, salts, magnesia etc. There is nothing more acceptable to the stomach. They give tone, and cause neither nausea nor griping pains. They are composed of the finest ingredients. After a few days' use of them, such an invigoration of the entire system takes place as to appear miraculous to the weak and enervated, whether arising from imprudence or disease. H. T. Helmbold's Compound Fluid Extract Catawba Grape Pills are not sugar-coated, from the fact that sugar-coated Pills do not dissolve, but pass through the stomach without dissolving, consequently do not produce the desired effect. THE CATAWBA GRAPE PILLS, being pleasant in taste and odor, do not necessitate their being sugar-coated. PRICE FIFTY CENTS PER BOX.

in all their stages, at little expense, little or no change in diet, no inconvenience, and no exposure. It causes a frequent desire, and gives strength to Urinate, thereby removing Obstructions, Preventing and Curing Strictures of the Urethra, Allaying Pain and Inflamation, so frequent in this class of diseases, and expelling all Poisonous matter.

Thousands who have been the victims of incompetent persons, and who have paid heavy fees to be cured in a short time, have found they have been deceived, and that the "Poison" has, by the use of "powerful astringents," been dried up in the system, to break out in a more aggravated form, and perhaps after Marriage.

Use HELMBOD'S EXTRACT BUCHU for all Affections and Diseases of the Urinary Organs, whether existing in Male or Female, from whatever cause originating, and no matter of how long standing. PRICE ONE DOLLAR AND FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE.

L

It speedily cradicates Pimples Spots, Scorbutic Dryness, Indurations of the Cutaneous Membrane, etc., dispels redness and incipient inflammation, hives, rash, moth patches, dryness of scalp or skin, frost bites, and all purposes for which salves or ointments are used; restore the skin to a state of purity and softness, and insures continued healthy action to the tissue of its vessels, on which depends the agreeable clearness and vivacity of complexion so much sought and admired. But however valuable as a remedy for existing defects of the skin, H. T. Helmbold's Rose Wash has long sustained its principle claim to undounded patronage, by possessing qualities which render it a Toilet Appendage of the most Superlative and Congenial character, combining in an elegant formula those prominent requisites, safety and efficacy—the invariable accompaniments of its use—as a Preservative and Refresher of the Complexion. It is an excellent Lotion for diseases of a Syphilitic Nature, and as an injection for diseases of the Urinary Organs, arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the EXTRACTS BUCHU, SARSAPARILLA, AND CATAWBA GRAPE PILLS, in such diseases as recommended, cannot be surpassed. The Great Medical Discovery!

Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

VINEGAR BITTERS,

Hundreds of Thousands

Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal. ☞ Send for a circular.

THEY ARE NOT A VILE

FANCY DRINK,

Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION. Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle.

Pennsylvania's Ancient Sea.

THE CONDITION OF THE KEYSTONE STATE SEVERAL AGES AGO.

The following is the Inquirer's brief abstract of a recent lecture of professor A. R. Leeds, before the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia:

In a preceding lecture upon "Pennsylvania's Foundation Stones," I sketched out for you the anatomy of the North American Continent. We have seen that there is a broad area—which includes almost the whole of New England, Northern New Jersey, Southern Pennsylvania, the middle of Maryland and Virginia and stretches thence southward of Georgia and Alabama—that is made up of gneissoid rocks. It has served in the structural growth of the continent as a vertebral column, a back to which the latter foundations have attached themselves in the process of development of an organic whole, such as the continent presents itself to us at the present day. From this backbone there extends two arms, one lifted to the northeast, and stretching from Northern New York to the west of Labrador, the other much longer, reaching to the shore of the Arctic ocean. To the southward extended a vast tract of shallow seas, with here and there, as in Wisconsin, Missouri and Arkansas, a small barren island. Great banks and shoals, not unlike those which at present underlie the fishing grounds of the coasts of Newfoundland, existed where now stands Cincinnati, and in many places beside. As now the beaches of New Jersey slope downward with such a gentle declivity that it is not until we have gone eighty or one hundred miles from the shore that we make the grand plunge and reach the terrible abyss of mid-ocean: so then the eastern shores of this narrow Y-shaped Continent probably were quite shallow over Eastern New Jersey, Delaware. Maryland, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

If you will have the patience to follow me we shall endeavor to travel together in company along the western shores of this continent, and trace out its windings and bays and gulfs. We shall stop to consider the furrows and marks of ancient tides and waves and storms, while here and there the traces of seaweeds and stranded crab or shell will for a moment delay our steps. The labors of the many eminent men who have spent months of pedestrian travel and years of profound thought in determining this vast line, teach us that it approached nearest to the present site of this city at a point on the Philadelphia and West Chester Railroad, a few miles west of Media. It then followed in a northeasterly direction through Chadd's Ford, Kennett Square and New London, leaving the State a few miles on this side of the crossing of Susquehanna into Maryland, at the State line. From this point it extended through Western Maryland and Virginia, North Carolina and Georgia, almost if not quite to the middle of Alabama. Tracing it to the northeastward, from the point on the West Chester Railroad, where we first set foot upon this ancient shore, we follow it round a long cape, which jutted out into the sea at Castle Rock, Marshalton, and Locust Grove, and then crossing the present bed, of the Schuykill not far down from Conschohocken, extending on until it passed out of the State at Trenton.

To the westward of this continental sea-beach were a number of islands, some broad, some narrow, which formed a succession of rounds lying one beyond the other, very much of the same kind as we find along the coast of North Carolina at the present day. But very little occurred upon this ancient shore of which we have no hint or tidings. If some worm vanished a grave was needful to his burial, and the grave without its inhabitant has come down to us. If the sun was much obscured by fogs and clouds we have the Trilobite, with great staring eyes like horns, to tell us that it was necessary for such a big fellow to make the most of the light there was to get his food and living by. No tide that ebbed or flowed for countless centuries passed away without leaving some rill or riplet mark to preserve its memory to the remotest reach of time. Even the veerings to and fro are as patent to the observer upon the shores of this ancient sea as to him who has looked to-day upon its constant shifts and whirls. Will the countless volumes written upon papyrus and parchment and paper, graven in brass or cut in stone by the hand of man be one-half so enduring? This beach reveals to us the mere beginnings of vegetable life. But few are the forms of these early marine plants which have been preserved to us, and homely as is their appearance, yet we cannot overestimate their importance. To them the animals which appeared at a later state of the world's development were indebted for the material of nerve and tube and vessel. It was only the stuff of shell or skeleton which the animal could elaborate directly from the waters of the sea. We are impressed, on examining the shells and other denizens of this ancient sea, with the idea that their structure was designed to animate the largest possible amount of mineral matter with the smallest possible quantity of organic. They are all evidently masons, builders of rock strata.

A wag, on seeing an old gobbler trying to swallow a cotton string, factiously remarked that it was a desperate attempt to introduce cotton into Turkey."

It is better to sow a young heart with generous thoughts and deeds than a field with corn, since the heart's harvest is perpetual.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

Wednesday Morning, May 31, 1871.

HOME NEWS.

ANOTHER.—Mr. Henry Brockerhoff has just had built a new fence on his lot fronting Spring Street. It is a good improvement and adds greatly to the appearance of the property.

ICE CREAM, BAKERY, &C.—We refer our readers to the advertisement of E. H. Yerger, in another column of the REPUBLICAN. Mr. Yerger has a first-class bakery. He keeps constantly on hand candies, nuts, raisens, cakes of all kinds and the very best of Ice Cream. We ask for him the patronage of a liberal public.

LIGHTNING RODS.—H. C. Diehl of Rebersburg is now engaged in putting up lightning rods. He also continues the Tin and Sheet Iron ware manufactory. Mr. Diehl is an expert workman a high minded honorable gentleman, and we therefore recommend him to the people of Penns valley as well as to the people of the whole county.

BIG YIELD.—Mr. Henry Garver of Potter township, purchased a half bushel of corn ears (early red cob) from Wm. Lohr formerly of Patton, but now of Potter township, for seed. Mr. Garver proceeded to shell the corn, and found that the ½ bushel of ears when shelled, made just 13 quarts. Who can beat this? And should there not be more of this corn planted?

FIRE ARMS.—We are sorry to learn that a man by the name of Beck—a resident of miles township, was severely injured a short time since, by the accidental discharge of a gun. We have not learned full particulars; but understand that his wound was dressed by that excellent Physician, and prince of good fellows, Dr. Hillibish. This is another warning to persons using fire arms in a careless manner.

HEAVY LOSS.—Gen. Wolf of Miles township, sustained a very heavy loss by fire, on Saturday night the 20th inst. The General for some time past, has, with a number of workmen, been engaged in getting out timber, for sawing shingles. The mountain being on fire, it finally reached the General's job, destroying, prepared blocks to the amount of about 100,000 shingles. We sympathise with Gen. Wolf in his loss.

BISMARK BITTERS.—We direct the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Schmidts celebrated Bismark Bitters, for the cure of Dyspepsia &c. These bitters have a wide spread reputation in both Europe and America, and are unequaled as a Tonic, Beverage and Appetizer. They are recommended by Physicians generally. Address Samuel Schmidt, No. 225 North 3d St. Philadelphia. See advertisement.

ACCIDENT.—Last week while a boy in the employ of Jonathan Kramer, in Miles township, was harrowing with a span of young and valuable horses, and while in the act of turning round, the horses became entangled in the gears and fell upon the sharp points of the teeth of the harrow, which had been turned up-side-down. The horses were injured in such a manner as to, probably, ruin them for life. We have not learned the exact date of the accident.

NEW HOUSE.—It was stated in the REPUBLICAN last week, that S. S. Lyon was building a new house. This is not exactly the fact, and as we want it distinctly understood that we always tell the truth, we now make the correction. The fact is our old and tried friend, Robert McKnight is building a house on one of those beautifully situated lots belonging to him, which has been purchased, and will when finished be occupied by S. S. Lyon, Esq. Mr. McKnight has more lots, and is prepared to erect as many houses as he can sell. The houses which he has already erected, proves him to be a first class Architect. We hope Mr. McKnight will keep on building until there is a house upon every lot he owns, and a purchaser and an occupant for every one of them. This would give employment to mechanics and be a great advantage to our town, and to the merchants and business men thereof. We wish Mr. McKnight success.

DECORATION DAY.—We have not space before going to press to give the particulars in regard to the proceedings on Tuesday—Decoration day. It was quite an improvement however, on other years. Maj. James Armor, determined this year that the graves of our dead heroes should be decorated, and honored. The Seiler Zouaves were invited and arrived here about 10 o'clock A. M. They are a fine looking body of men. The Bellefonte Fire Company and the Zouaves met at 1 o'clock at the Hose house, and after organizing, proceeded to the public school house, where the children of all the schools were in waiting. The procession then took up its line of march for the cemeteries, where they covered the graves of our lamented dead with flowers. The following is a list of the names of our patriotic dead, who lie buried in our cemeteries.

Capt. Richard Dinsmore, 5th Pa. Reserves.

ODD FELLOWS DEDICATION.—The Odd Fellows of Centre Lodge No. 153 will dedicate their new and splendid Lodge room, on Tuesday the 6th day of June next. Past Grand Sire Nicholson will deliver a public lecture at 8 o'clock p. m. Past Grand Master, John B. Springer of Philadelphia, C. N. Kickock of Bedford, and Grand Warden, Jacob M. Campbell, have been invited and expected to be present. A street parade will take place in the evening. Delegations from lodges at Lock Haven, Osceola and Philipsburg will participate on the occasion. A supper at the Bush House will be given at 9 o'clock p. m., when the festivities in the name of the order will end. It is expected however that the daughters of Rebecca will be present and form an interesting part of the festive occasion. After the supper a social dance is anticipated by the young people.

CLOTHIERS.—While we were in Philadelphia we had the pleasure of meeting our old friend Marx B. Loeb, now a member of the firm of Frank Brothers & Co. Clothiers and jobbers of mens ware, No. 51 North 3d Street. The firm is composed of Samuel Frank, Meyer Frank, Henry S. Frank and Marx B Loeb, all good and reliable men. Here where Mr. Loeb is known he needs no encomiums from us. The establishment of Frank Brothers & Co., is one of the largest wholesale clothing establishments in the city. They make all the clothing they sell. We saw, we think 69 persons on one floor busy in cutting out. They give employment to hundreds of people, and deserve the liberal patronage which they are receiving. See card in another column.

Respectfully Submitted,
G. L. MORLOCK, Teacher.

NEW FENCE.—Our enterprising friend John D. Lieb, Esq., has built a new fence, fronting Bishop street, from his house to the stable. It is a good improvement. Mr. Lieb is engaged in the lumber and grain commission business. His lumber yard is always well supplied with boards and lumber of all kinds, at reasonable prices. Merchants who do not wish to dispose of their wheat should call upon Mr. Lieb, who always finds a place to put it. He is one of our best citizens and deals on the square.

CHANGE.—In consequence of repairs now being made to the Court House, the place for holding the Sabbath school convention next week has been changed to the Wigwam or Bethel of the Presbyterian church. The building is admirably suited for the purpose, being furnished with blackboards and all the conveniences. The convention will be very large and no doubt very interesting.

For the REPUBLICAN.

LOVEVILLE SCHOOL.—The 25th of May was the last day of school at Loveville, and I having a little leisure in the afternoon, accepted the kind invitation extended to me by the teacher to visit the school. I did not expect to be entertained in a grand style. as the scholars belonging to the school were mostly young, owing to the fact, that the school is situated in the country, where children who are old enough, generally have to work during the summer. I went to the school immediately after dinner. The exercises until recess, consisted in the examination of several classes geography and mental arithmatic, which was passed by the pupils in a perfect manner, and which goes to show the parents of the community, that they have not been paying their money for nothing, to the teacher they had this summer.

After recess the programme was somewhat different, as the time was spent in declaiming interspersed with some very nice singing by the little girls. There was a piece read in concert by the 4th reader class, entitled "The Leap for Life," which I think was the crowning feature of the exercises. After some very appropriate remarks by the teacher, it was left to the pupils whether he should teach next winter or not, as he had been offered the school, but said he did not want to teach in a school where he was not liked by the children; when the vote was taken there was not a single scholar who did not stand up in favor of his returning. Judging from the progress the children have made this summer, and from the way they like their teacher, I think there is no doubt but that there will be both a pleasant and instructive term of school at Loveville next winter.

VISITOR.

FIFTY dozen of Maw & Sons Tooth Brushes just received at Green's.

BROKERHOFF HOUSE.—The impression has gone forth that the Brokerhoff House has been closed. Upon the authority of Mr. A. Krom we state that this is not the fact. The House will be refurnished, indeed, is already partly furnished and will be kept open under the Supervision of Mr. Geo. Welsh. Geo. is a good fellow and understands his busines well, and has determined that the old friends of the Brokerhoff House shall be as well cared for in the future as they have been in the past. Mr. Krom will be here at least half his time, and assures us that his old friends shall be taken care of. Mr. Welsh is well known to our people and if he and Mr. Krom cannot accommodate the people there are no other men in this country who can.

PLEASANT.—It is always pleasant to meet old friends; but we were especially pleased to meet our old neighbor, A. Baum, Esq., in Philadelphia. Mr. Baum was a resident of our county for several years, and made for himself quit a reputation for industry and fair and honorable dealing. He is now engaged as wholesale dealer in Foreign and Domestic Wine and Liquors, Bourbon, Rye and Monongahela whiskies, No. 117 Vine street Philadelphia. Persons engaged in the liquor business in the country, can not do better than to order from A. Baum. See card.

HARNESS &c.—Mr. James Schofield, who is an excellent workman has rented the room adjoining the store of Harper Bro's. where he is prepared to Make all kinds of harness, saddles &c. He requests those who have been in the habit of going to the city for their fine harness &c. to call and see his work. He is making silver and gold mounted harness ranging in price from $50, to $125.

FASTEN a nail or a key to a string and suspend it to your thumb and finger, and the nail will oscillate like a pendulum. Let some one place his open hand under the nail. and it will change to circular motion. Then let a third person place his hand upon your shoulder, and the nail becomes in a moment stationary.

SILVER WARE.—Few counties in the State of Pennsylvania contain richer or more independent farmers than Centre county.. They are rich and they know it. They have worked hard for their money and have now made up their minds to enjoy their wealth the balance of their days. The result is they are fixing up their homes, furnishing their houses with all the necessaries and luxuries of the age. Many of them are, among other luxuries, purchasing silver ware for the adornment of their tables &c. The great trouble heretofore with them has been to find a reliable house from which to purchase. To all such, we would say, you cannot go wrong if you will call or send your orders to Messrs. Mead & Robbins, N. E. Corner Ninth and Chestnut Streets Philadelphia.

This firm has been engaged in the manufacture of Silver ware &c., for over 36 years and is without doubt as many Bellefonters know, one of the most reliable houses in Philadelphia. The young Mr. Mead, whose acquaintance we made, is in every respect a highly cultivated gentleman. Messrs. Mead & Robbins keep constantly on hand, elegant dinner and tea services urns and kettles, on Nickel Silver, or White Metal. Salvers of every shape and size, Cake Baskets in every style, Castors from two to seven bottles, Tureens, Ice Pitchers, Butter dishes. They have Cutlery in every variety of Ivory, Pearl and Metal handles, plated and unplated upon the finest quality of English Shear Steel, and fully warranted. They make a speciality of Spoons and Forks. These goods are wholly manufactured by themselves, from the purest Nickel Silver ever worked into table ware and heavily plated by weight, and stamped with the "Firm name" and the quantity of silver warranted actually upon the goods. We should like to extend our remarks upon this house, but our space admonishes us to close for the present. We will refer to it again however. Remember the name of the firm, the place and the business, Mead & Robbins, Manufacturers, N. E. Cor. Ninth and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia.

DIE MODENWELT.—This is the name of an illustrated Magazine for fashions and fancy work, with supplement—giving yearly more than 1600 illustrations, 200 patterns, 400 diagrams for braiding and embroidery and 12 colored fashion plates, published in French, German and English, at the low price of $3,00 per year, two numbers a month and for sale by S. T. Taylor, Importer of Ladies Fashions 391 Canal Street, New York.

We have received one of the May numbers of this splendid Magazine, and cheerfully recommend the Modenwelt to the ladies of Pennsylvania as the largest, best and most beautiful fashion paper published in our country, and can not be excelled in its superior plates and line patterns. Will some of our enterprising news men endeavor to procure the Agency for its sale in this place? It is worth double the money asked for it.

FOR fine Perfumery and Toilet Soaps go to Green's.

WHO IS IT?—The woods in Greensvalley and the Greensyalley mountain, were set on fire on Sunday the 21st inst., by some malicious person, who no doubt has an idea that he is not known; but in this he is mistaken. He will learn his mistake to his sorrow and that before many days, if we are correctly informed. It is singular indeed, that for the last five or six years the valley has been fired, and invariably on Sunday. The chestnut timber is in this way being destroyed, and is consequently a loss to the owners of the land of thousands of dollars every year. There should be no delay (if it has not already been done) in meeting out justice to the perpetrator of this crime.

THE best and the cheapest Tooth Brushes in the country are at Green's.

FLOUR, FLOUR.—One of the best mills in this country is Fairview Mill situated near Hecla Furnace, and owned by the heirs of Jas. Gordon deceased. The machinery is all of the very best, and the miller Mr. Samuel Stein, is one of the best in the country. Mr. Stein has had a lease of the mill for the last five years, and has made such a reputation both for himself and for the mill, that we presume it will be many years before there is any change made. Mr. Stein is an honest upright man, purchases wheat rye corn, in short all kinds of grain, for which he is always prepared to pay the highest market price in cash.

WHOLESALE.—Philip Schoeneman, wholesale Clothier No. 225 North 3d street Philadelphia, and dealer in cloths, cassimeres, vestings, Tailors trimmings and mens wear, is one of those pleasant men, calculated to do business in any place, city, village or country. He is doing a very extensive business in the city, and we would direct the attention of all our merchants both in town and country to his advertisement in another column of the REPUBLICAN.

HATS HATS.—While in Philadelphia on the 18th, 19th, 20th and 21st inst., we had the pleasure of a personal interview with that superior hatter Wm. F. Warburton, 430 Chestnut St. Philadelphia. We found him to be all our "fancy painted him," a whole souled, courteous and affable gentleman with a magnificent hat store so full of customers, that it was almost impossible for us to get through the store No. 430 to Mr. Warburtons desk. This rush is evidently owing to the fact that Mr. Warburton, No. 430 Chestnut street Philadelphia, fully understands his business and advertises very extensively. He believes in the scriptures and fully endorses that passege which declares that "No man lighteth a candle and putteth it under a bushel. In other words he is like a city built upon a hill—makes the best of hats, and is desirous that every person in the land should be apprised of that fact. We think his trade will greatly increase in the future, for the reason that we ordered a hat for Professor Magee, our county School Superintendent, and by the time he travels over Centre county two or three times, and the people discover how the Warburton hat has improved his already good looks, every male human being in the county over 21 years—or large enough to wear a hat will want one of Warburtons best, with his patent ventelator attached. This ventilator is really a great improvement. It is Mr. Warburton's own invention, and is only found in the Warburton hat. More Anon. See card.

SINGULAR.—The Bridgeport Farmer tells a remarkable story in regard to what, not many years ago, would have been considered a miracle. It says that in the "old Division street graveyard" at Bridgeport there is a marble slab marking the grave of Robert Dinus Backus, who died on the 10th of February, 1834, aged 12 years and 9 months. On the reverse of the stone is a stain which represents a woman grasping a club with which she is in the act of striking; all attempts to obliterate this stain by scraping are ineffectual, and "we are told" that this is the fifth stone which has marked the spot, the preceding ones having been removed on account of their inveterate tendency to represent the same scene. The legend connected with the singular circumstance is that the child was killed by its mother.

A profuse and many times excessively offensive discharge from the nose, with "stopping up" of the nose at times, impairment of the sense of smell and taste, watering or weak eyes, impaired hearing, irregular appetite, occasional nausea, pressure and pain over the eyes, and at times in the back of the head, occasional chilly sensations, cold feet, and a feeling of lassitude and debility are symptoms which are common to Catarrh, yet all of them are not present in every case. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures Catarrh in its worst forms and stages. It is pleasant to use, and contains no poisonous or caustic drugs. Sent by mail on receipt of sixty cents. Address R. V. Pierce, 133 Seneca Street, Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by druggists.

WARM WEATHER AND ITS EFFECTS.—Many people, especially ladies, complain at this season of the year of general weakness and debility. The use of Speer's Port Grape Wine prevents this. The wine is said to have a most wonderful effect in giving strength, vigor and tone to the whole system; it is extensively used by ladies nursing or about to nurse infants.

Parties from London and Paris order it appreciating it above French wines. It is said to be unsurpassed for summer complaints, and for weakly persons.—Our druggists have obtained some direct from Mr. Speer. The price is low for so excellent a wine, and every family should have a bottle in the house.—Philadelphia Pr.

THANKS.—Our thanks are due our enterprising friend, J. P. McColley, with E. L. Mintzer, Jr., dealer in canned fruit, nuts &c., No. 36 North Wharves, below Arch street, for a box of canned peaches, tomatoes plums, almonds, filberts, cream nuts, English walnuts &c., &c. This is a first class house, and their Agent Mr. J. P. McColley is worthy in every way of the patronage of Centre county merchants. Call again Mr. McColley.

DENTISTRY.—Dr. Samuel Belford has returned from Lewistown and will remain at his office over the Drug store of Linn & Wilson, for two weeks. Dr. B. is a first-class Dentist, and warrants satisfaction or asks no pay. Persons needing the services of a Dentist will do well to call on Dr. Belford.

ICE CREAM &C.—One of the finest Ladies and Gentlemen's Ice Cream and Eating saloons in the city of Philadelphia, is that kept by Thomas Mooney, No. 130 North 9th St. Philadelphia. He is a very clever man, and we hesitate not to say—a perfect gentleman.

RESTAURANT.—The Merchants Restaurant and Saloon No. 806 Market St. Philadelphia, C. C. Jackway Proprietor is one of the most genteel as well as one of the best Restaurants in the city. It is a good place to get a meal.

EAGLE HOTEL.—A few weeks ago we stated what we then knew of the Eagle Hotel, No. 227 North 3d street Philadelphia—R. D. Cummings, Esq., Proprietor. Since that time having visited our friend Cummings, we are prepared to speak from the book. And first we are more fully convinced than ever, that R. D. Cummings has few if any superiors in the State as a hotel keeper. We need not say anything on this subject here where everybody knows him. But another thing in which he excels, is his superior knowledge of men and things. Owing to this knowledge, he always succeeds in procuring first class superintendents and Caterers. Mr. M. M. Swan the Superintendent of the Eagle Hotel, is a native we believe of Lancaster county, is a splendid man and understands his business fully. He makes every person about the house feel pleasant and at home. Another good trait in his character is, he is always at his post. No guest is delayed waiting for him. Mr. Wm. H. Hacker the young and genial gentleman who acts as caterer for the house, is hard to excell in his department, as the table at the Eagle Hotel abundantly proves. We are sorry we have not space for a more extended notice. We must say however, that the Eagle Hotel is well furnished, and we think the furniture in the ladies parlor is not excelled any Hotel in the city.

GROCERIES.—We direct the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Messrs Rhul & Gault in another column of the REPUBLICAN. These gentlemen have received a large stock of canned fruits, dried fruits, mackerel, hams, shoulders, lard, cheese, coffee, tea, sugar, &c. Messrs Ruhl & Gault are clever men and deserve the patronage of the public. Call and see them before buying elsewhere.

CHEESE &C.—The place to buy dried fruit, herring, pork, lard, mackerel, cheese, pickels &c., is at Caldwell & Ewing's wholesale establishment No. 248 North Wharves Philadelphia.
